Canadian teams win New Zealand agri-competition

BY KEVIN VINK MVP Staff

Jared Hunter, 24-year-old Didsbury resident who was chosen to be captain of a team assembled to represent Canada in the youth division of the 2013 Wrightson World Angus Forum (WAF) in New Zealand, returned home fron the competition on Sunday with the grand champion title for his division, according to a Canadian Angus Association (CAA) press

Hunter, Besides the team - called The Canucks – included: Patrick Holland from Montague, P.E.I.;

Melissa McRae from Man.; Brandon, and Michael Hargrave from Maxwell, Ont.

Hunter said the competition was intense, with three teams from of Canada, Zealand and Australia, and one from Great Britain.

"A lot of the people really knew what they were doing, and they are probably the best at what they do," said Hunter.

"It was a pretty intense competition, everyone was a the top of their game, I would say."

The youths are taking home the world champion title along with $10,000 NZ in prize

There were three teams of four youths each sent New Zealand from Canada, with the reserve grand champion title also being awarded to a Canadian team.

The teams travelled to Rotorua, North Island, New Zealand, on Oct. 9 for a five-section Contest, including general knowledge, paradstock judging, animal preparation and agri-sports.

Team members also had the chance to visit angus studs in the area and participate in an adrenaline tour with 10 other teams from across the world. New Zealand organizers included a 150-year celebration of angus in their country and hosted a first-class celebration.

Hunter added that he wasn't entirely sure his team going into the event.

Car club revving up plans for events in coming year

BY KEVIN VINK

The Didsbury Car Club will hold its first meeting early next month, and Gil Enns, president of the club, says the group will be mulling over many options regarding expanding the already flourishing D Show and Shine. Didsbury

The club is open to the public, and those who want to participate don't even need to have an antique or high-performance car, simply an appreciation for nice

The first meeting will be at the Gil's Truck and Auto shop at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 5.

"It's an open house, if anybody wants to show up they can, and if anybody wants to join they can join," said Enns, noting there are already about 17 members

We've got a lot of stuff planned," he said, noting that the first priority is to work on expanding the annual show and shine, though he and the board of directors, which has already been elected, also have some other events that they will be bringing to the table.

They're going to try and work something out with the Rural Ride for Dad, as Enns also works with that group in an ongoing basis, and he noted the club may invite motorcyclists out for next year and look at bringing in a dynamometer for the bikes

He said some members are talking about bringing live music down to the ball diamonds later on in the afternoon and having hamburgers and some sort of event there.

The club will also consider a Didsbury-based organization to donate proceeds to, and though they have historically given their proceeds to the Mountain View Food Bank – and will continue to do so - he would also like to see some pro-ceeds going directly to something in town.

Diagnosing vision problems in children is tough at the best of times, but many parents are not aware that children under the age of 19 receive free eye exams under Alberta Health Services (AHS), say offieye exams and glasses for kids child has healthy eyes, and most children don't show obvious symptoms because they assume everyone sees the way do. October Children's Vision Month, and local optometrist Dr. Jeff Waddell of For Sight Vision Centre, wants to remind residents that annual eye exams are

"It's a program to kind of encourage parents to get their kids' eyes checked, just to make sure there are no problems," said Waddell. "It's important for chil-

Optometrists recommend that children receive their first eye exam at six months of age, their second by the age of three, their third before starting kindergarten, and then each year after starting school. "A child with an undetected vision problem can easily fall behind in school," he said.

"Poor vision can delay a child's development, making learning and coordination for physi-cal activities difficult."

This is why the AAO has been spearheading the campaign to raise the public's awareness that one in four children will have some sort of vision problem, he said. "A lot of kids don't get checked out, so we might not get a huge monetary benefit, but that's not the point. It's just to get them in the door and make sure they're not going to be hindered scholasti-cally for the better part of their childhood, he added. "This gives them a reason to come in and get their eyes checked even if they can't finan-cially afford it."

In 2011 and 2012, 19,888 five-year-olds had eye exams, and of those tested, 1,783 kindergarteners received a free pair of glasses in the 2011-2012 school year, according to an AAO

Residence burgled

A residence was broken into and burgled on Thanksgiving weekend, between Saturday, Oct. 12 at 2 p.m. and the following day at 430 p.m., according to police.

Skis, snowboards, computers, DVDs, video games and personal photo albums were stolen from the residence, which is on the 700 block of 23rd Street, said Cpl. Warren Wright.

"Obviously personal photo albums are very unique," said Wright, noting that they would have little monetary value.

Police are asking anybody who may have witnessed this burglary to call the Didsbury RCMP Detachment or Crime Stappers at 1-800-222-TIPS.

Rural assault

A woman was peppersprayed following an incident that took place in the early morning hours of Oct. 13, at a property located off Highway 22 and Twp. Rd. 294, said Wright.

At about 6 a.m., the woman awoke to a noise in front of her house and she observed four people in her yard, he said.

"She opened a window and poked her head out to ask them what they were doing."

She was then peppersprayed by one of the people, after which they kicked in her front door.

Although the culprits did not enter the house and nothing is believed to have been stolen, the woman needed medical treatment and did not get a good look at the car or the culprits, he noted.

"We're grateful that, other than the temporary contamination, we're grateful she was not otherwise harmed or robbed during the incident," he added.

Tool theft

Three bags of hand tools were stolen from a residence on the 1500 block of 23 Avenue between Tuesday, Oct. 8, and the following day at 8 a.m., said Wright.

They had been located in a work truck parked in the area, and the tools are valued at about $1,500, he added.

Rural vandalism

Earlier this month, an unknown subject or subjects made their way onto a property on Twp. Rd. 310 and Rge. Rd. 52, said Wright.

He said the property owner thinks it happened between Oct. 1 and 12, but reported it on the 12th.

Some outbuildings on the west side of the property were forcibly pried open and there were windows broken and a door smashed off its hinges.

"It doesn't appear that anything was stolen, just that the place was trashed," said Wright.

Rural break-in

An unknown suspect or suspects entered a commercial building near Twp. Rd. 314 and Rge. Rd. 284, between Oct. 14 at 4 p.m. and the following morning, said Wright.

Someone entered the property and police are still investigating, he added.

Rehab work in Southridge Crescent completed

BY KEVIN VINK MVP Staff

The sewage, water line and rainwater runoff upgrades were completed in Southridge Crescent earlier this month, and Karen Henry, manager of planning and infrastructure for the town, said though contractors did run slightly behind schedthe work is basically done.

"I think there was a plan to meet with the engineers and do a completion inspection, but essentially they're done," said Henry.

The original project, which had been tendered last winter cost $550,000, but following a water line break in February this year, town council voted to extend the tender, adding $143,000 to the total scope of work, she noted.

"In the summer, we were actually able to extend the scope west, up to 22 Street, so we could replace that water main and any connections left, and then redo the top of the road there," she said.

The original scope included replacement of a slumping sewer line, replacement of the water line, and an extension of storm water lines to allow less water travelling overland and eroding the work already in place, she added.

Some residents were inconvenienced by the work, as their driveways were inaccessible for some time during the project, she said.

'It took two or three weeks longer than we had anticipated, but we got done and they laid the pave-ment. It was just difficult to keep people informed quickly as things were happening

She noted the extended scope did affect the original schedule, and contractors needed to wait for concrete to cure properly, which also took some (Residents) were really quite patient about it, and then by September, we were getting into con-crete curbs, and we had a couple hiccups."

The town tried to keep residents informed throughout the project, but she noted that it was tough due to the amount of work going on, especially when the hiccups came into play.

However, the asphalt has been laid and officials don't expect to have to do any more work there for a while, though the spring thaw is when any issues will come to light, she said.

"We'll see how it all performs this next year, particularly during the spring thaw, to see how much of an improvement we got...The water should flow better, and hopefully we get less issues with water freezing on the road."

Along with the extended scope, contractors also replaced a couple of fire hydrants that Henry had not expected needed replacing, but after all the testing and costs involved, the project has now wrapped up, costing a total of $693,000.

"Of course we'd like to thank people for their patience, and I hope they're happy with the final product. It's certainly going to provide better ser-vice in the long run with fewer problems," she

Bullying fight should be top priority for trustees

This week's municipal election marks a great and opportune time for newly elected school board trust s to commit themselves to leading the fight against student bullying.

In particular, trustees in the Chinook's Edge School Division and the Red Deer Catholic Regional Schools are encouraged to make the safety and success of every student a top priority every day of the school year.

And if that means coming down much harder on those who bully, then trustees should know that they have the support of the public at large to do just that. Bullying of students by their whether it's in person or online or through other social media – has become a nationwide concern in recent years.

In some tragic cases, including in Alberta, students have taken their own lives as a result of bullying, dev-astating family and friends and ending what should be productive lives just as they are getting started.

As part of the ongoing fight against bullying, the Chinook's Edge School Division has implemented both policies and procedures aimed at protecting students at all grade levels.

The division's hazing and froshing administrative procedure defines those activities as "those that result in bullying, humiliation or harassment" and that "any activities that encourage hazing should be eliminated."

"The division believes hazing and froshing activities are detrimental to individual students and school climate and are therefore prohibited. The division believes that hazing is an abusive and humiliating activity and expects that students will neither initiate, participate or encourage hazing or froshing," the procedure states.

The division's harassment policy prohibits "conduct or communication in any form, (including technology use, computer, internet, email, messag-ing and cellphone) of attitudes, beliefs or actions which might be reasonably known to be unwel-

The Canada-wide fight against student bullying is stronger than it has ever been, with educators and the public at large acknowledging that when students are bullied, they become victims in need of protection and support

At the same time, it has become accepted by many that bullies should never be treated with kid gloves, but instead should be handled severely, both as a deterrent to their activities and as a message to others who might consider bullying

As newly elected school board trustees take up their positions this week, they are encouraged to work with teachers, students, staff members, parents and others to make West Central Alberta schools bully-free

And if that means that the fight against bullying needs to be stepped up even further, then trustees should do just that.

Letter to the editor

In response to Renee McNeil's letter to the editor, Didsbury Review, Oct. 15, 2013

First off, we would like to thank Ms. McNeil for showing interest in the success of the Mountain View Arts Festival.

However, the board of direc-tors of the Mountain View Arts Society also feel it is important that we address her concerns on the location of the Artisan Village portion of the arts festival

As our name indicates, the Mountain View Arts Society supports arts, culture and heritage in Carstairs, Cremona, Didsbury, Olds, Sundre, and the surrounding communities in Central Alberta.

Like many festivals in the province, to properly showcase all that is art, culture, and heritage in a community, several different venues are utilized.

Perhaps McNeil did not real-ize the Mountain View Arts Festival is held in four different venues: the Didsbury Municipal Library, Didsbury Museum, Train Station, and in the Rosebud Run park.

As with any organization host ing an event, many things are considered when deciding on the best location possible. In our case, we have to have services such as water and power. We need adequate and secure parking, perimeter fencing, and on-site storage facilities

In 2013, we needed to host open fires, costume weapons, and on-site tenting. Our volunteers and some participants need access to the property over several days

We need around-the-clock security.

From an insurance point of view, we cannot express enough the importance of safety for the artists and their exhibits, the volunteers, and the entertainers. None of the locations McNeil suggested fulfilled our criteria for 2013.

Our reasons for having the Artisan Village in the Rosebud Valley were well-founded.

As to attendance, the library had three times as many visitors as it had last year. Thanks in part to our extended advertis ing campaign this year, people came to the museum from 24 communities other than Didsbury, from four other provinces, and three other countrie

The train station was busy all weekend long and over 300 people took in the quilt exhibits

The shuttle was full on many of its trips.

Out-of-towners stayed in motels in Olds, Carstairs, and Didsbury, as well as in the Rosebud Valley Campground. The Mountain View Arts Society appreciates this opportunity to respond to McNeil's concerns regarding the location of the Artisan Village during the 2013 Mountain View Arts Festival.

We thank everyone in Mountain View County who completed evaluation forms distributed at all our venues and shared some of their great visions for future festivals

Whether you're an individual, or if your entire club or group wants to help out, just say the word and we'll find a spot that showcases your talents and energies.

Didsbury Lions Club

BY KEVIN VINK MVP Staff

The Didsbury Lions Club members were delighted to hear that the club had been nominated for the Not for Profit Society of the Year Award. The Didsbury Lions Club was chartered in the mid-1940s. The Lions' motto is "We Serve," and the club has been doing just that for the last 70-plus years. They have raised funds through concession booths, auction sales, playhouse and gazebo raffles, and parking and security jobs. The Lions were instrumental in the building of the Didsbury campground, Reiber Park at the hospital, the recycling centre, and the bus barn.

They have given support to the Didsbury High School band; put money towards high school scholarships; helped provide canine guides; raised funds for cancer and diabetes research and support services; supported the Mountain View Food Bank, and individuals suffering misfortune. The Lions own and operate the Didsbury shuttle bus and are currently raising funds to replace the bus in 2014. They currently have 36 members including two ledies

Rural Alberta Motorcycle Ride for Dad

BY KEVIN VINK

On behalf of the Rural Ride for Dad Committee, the group said they would like to thank the community of Didsbury for its support in the 2013 ride event.

In the fight against prostate cancer, the Rural Ride for Dad chapter has, to date, raised over $500,000, which combined with the national total, ends up being over $10 million.

This money is being put towards research and awareness for the fight against prostate cancer.

There were no such societies just a short time ago, and the money raised in Alberta stays in Alberta for various research and awareness projects.

Officials say it has been exciting to watch the growth of the Rural Ride for Dad continue each year and to see the impact that it is having on rural communities in were the rule, not the exception. Rod Neufeld and Allen Reed are a couple of familiar faces in Didsbury and the area.

Their mission in their work is to match people properties, with their ultimate goal of happy and satisfied clients. Allen and Rod love working with people and see their work as a means to make a difference in the lives of others. This attitude spills over into the community in general with many groups and organizations benefiting from financial contributions by "the Porch" as well as their direct involvement in community events.

The "Porch Boyz" have a fun-loving spirit but take their clients' needs very seriously. This has proven to be a successful combination over the

Victoria's Flowers and Gifts

BY KEVIN VINK

Victoria's Flowers and Gifts is owned by Gordon Fulton, who decided to open a flower shop 10 years

Gord and his family had moved to Didsbury in 1993. He was a sign language interpreter at that time, and his wife Peggy worked as a teaching assistant at the school.

Gord got into the florist business when helping out a friend, eventually deciding to open his own busi-ness, naming it after his daughter.

Over the years, Gord has studied under design masters from Europe and the United Stated.
The original business was located where Uptown

Bistro is now, but after three years it had outgrown that space, so he purchased the Berscht Building, renovated it, and moved into the much more roomy space that he has now.

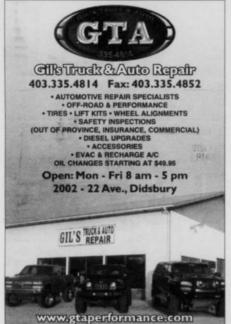

The shop has two other employees: Betty, an exceptional designer with over 30 years' experience, and Shyanne, who is a part-time employee

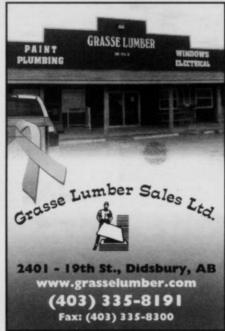

Together, they strive to provide the best product and service for their customers, while making each order as individual as the person receiving it.

Due to the quality of product and service, their business has grown through customer referrals.

The business supports many local causes, such as the Didsbury and Disctrict Chamber of Commerce, the Didsbury Elks, and the Didsbury Royal Purple to name a few, and Gord has remained very involved with youth organizations in the area, contributing to the Didsbury High School graduations for the past

All three doctors joined the roster of on-call physicians at the local hospital.

Over the five years they have been open, there have been many changes. The clinic changes. The clinic joined the Highland Primary Care Network and now it has a large multi-disciplinary consisting of a regis-tered nurse, pharmacist, and social worker, to help meet the complex needs of the patients in their care.

The clinic also offers a Thursday evening walkin clinic and other walk-in days throughout the week.

In addition to the medical clinic, Dr. Jackson opened the Silverfern Aesthetics and Vein clinic, which offers botox, fillers, vein therapy and medical-grade skin care in the clinic.

It has been an exciting and very busy five years, and the doctors and staff at the clinic look forward to serving the community in the years ahead.

Didsbury Dragons player Ben Strautman breaks past an Innisfail Cyclones player during their semi final game in Didsbury on Oct. 19. Didsbury won the game 19 to 16.

BY KEVIN VINK

The Didsbury Dragons football team is going to the final game in the Mountain View 9 Man Football Conference, after narrowly beating the Innisfail Cyclones with a final score of 19-16 last Saturday, according to officials.

It was looking like the Cyclones would take the win, but near the end of the last quarter, the Dragons pulled through on one last touchdown, bringing them up from 13 points to 19, said Mark Lefebvre, coach of the Dragons.

"We're going on to the final game. It was our goal for this year to get to the championship game, because once you get there, anything can happen," said Lefebvre.

He noted Drayton Valley and the Dragons are both undefeated and have not played each other yet this season, and he said they will face either Drayton Valley or Carstairs in the final matchup.

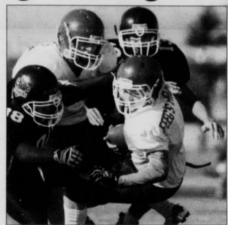

"I know one thing's for sure, we've had to battle through more adversity than they have this year."

The team has sustained a significant number of injuries from both practices and games, such as a broken hand, a hip injury, a broken collarbone, a groin injury, turf toe and a bruised shin bone, he said.

"So we've had so many injuries and somehow we just battled through it and came out on the winning end. It doesn't happen very often that you come up from behind in high school football."

The game didn't go quite as he had planned, he said, and he didn't expect that final turnaround.

"(The Cyclones) tackled better, they played better defence, they took away some of our sweeps and took the momentum, and it was hard to get back," "We marched it down (on the last play) and went to our most dependable Grade 12, fourth-year player and let him go one on one with somebody to see if he can bring it down. And nine times out of 10, he brings it down."

The player did what he always does, snagging the victory for the Dragons, he noted, adding that he thinks that player will go on to play for bigger teams.

Trevor Wooff, coach of the Cyclones, said that the team pushed hard, but they made a mistake, leading to the Dragons taking the win.

"They played hard and the boys didn't give up and there was a penalty there that we didn't need to take that kind of got (Didsbury) going again, and otherwise we would have had them stonged."

stopped."
"It went well, it was probably the best game these guys have played all season. We were short-benched, we usually have 18 and we were down to 14, so we were short-benched with our bodies."

The players who couldn't make it had other commitments, but the ones that did come out "played iron man football, they were pumped except for that last series."

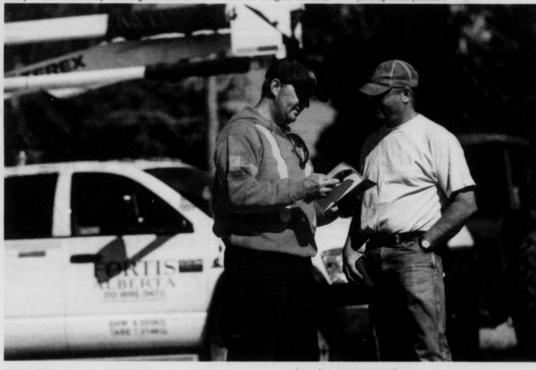

The team is disappointed about not winning the game, but there's always next year, he added.

The season started out well, and there was a three-game series against Drayton Valley – one of the league's stronger teams – and though they were beaten all three times, they did learn from their mistakes, he said.

"But the boys in the past couple of weeks have really pulled it together and they've practised harder. Our numbers are down for practice, but there's work, hockey, school, griffriends, all those things that come into play."

They will return to the league next year, though they will be losing about half the team due to graduations, he said.

The final game will be taking place at Great Chief Park in Red Deer this Saturday.

UpTown Bistro

The idea for the bistro all started in the home kitchen of Brittany Wackett and Sherry and Kevin Boyer.

After years of preparing family dinners and dinner parties for large numbers of people the feedback that they received from everyone was amazing.

A passion for cooking and feeding people was born. A family-based business was created, and they started out by creating a catering business after completing a diploma in professional catering.

They then moved on to dreaming about having a storefront to provide fresh, healthy, homemade food for the com-munity of Didsbury.

When the space became available on main street, it was their chance to show the residents of Didsbury what they had to offer.

Fresh, healthy, homemade and convenient food is avail-able at the bistro, and its menu consists of a selection of soups, sandwiches, salads, gluten free options, hot specials and baked goods, which change daily to provide a variety of different foods and flavours from around the world.

UpTown Bistro has a foundation built on community. They love their town and want to provide a service that the community can be proud of.

They support the town by contributing to local charities and by purchasing pork and beef from the local butcher shop, River Rock Custom Processing.

They would like to send a special thank you to everyone who has supported them, and thank their staff Sandy Beazley and Kendall Van Dyck.

And they would also like to thank their customers for com-ing in and enjoying their food and helping keep their dream

Wannamaker In loving memory of a dear husband, father, grandfather Richard (Dick) who passed away October 24, 2012. October comes with great regret A month that we will never forget We hold our tears when we speak your name But the ache in our hearts remains the same No one knows the sorrow we share When the family meets and you're not there You left a space that no one can fill But in our hearts you liveth still Ever loved by Valeda, Rick, Deana and family, Darwin, Diane and family, Greg, Myrna and family

The family of Phyllis Stroub would like to thank the othills Emergency in Calgary for the care of our mother during her illness. Also thanks to her many friends and Pastor Norm Tauber of First Baptist Church in Olds for the support and understanding of our loss. Greatest appreciation to Heartland Funeral Services for helping to organize and give that extra helping hand. Wonderful! Many thanks & heartfelt gratitude to all -
